EXCEPTIONAL EXPERIENCE. INVALUABLE EXPERTISE.

Wiley, a global education provider, is looking for the next generation of leaders. Ideal candidates thrive in a fast paced environment, are solution-oriented, and proactively seek professional development opportunities. The ten-week, paid summer internship runs June through August and is available to graduate or baccalaureate students in their junior or senior year. This challenging, leadership-focused program provides participants with real-world experience in a variety of areas such as:

An internship that's anything but ordinary, the Future Leaders of Wiley summer intensive provides students with the opportunity to work on important projects, assignments, as well as participate in a leadership development program. Participants are awarded a certificate upon program completion.

THE WILEY DIFFERENCE

Award Winning. The Future Leaders of Wiley summer intensive is an extension of John Wiley's internship program that was named one of the best internships available for students in the Princeton Review's America's Top 100 Internships. We have also received the distinction of being named as one of the best places to work in Orlando, Florida, and Chicago, Illinois.

The Wiley Advantage. Along with a weekly competitive stipend, the program provides students with real-world experience while they attain professional development that will benefit their career. Covering topics such as empowerment, teamwork and conflict resolution, students develop leadership skills while engaging in rewarding team building and social activities.

A Collaborative, Real-World Experience. The program takes participants beyond applicable day-to-day work and assigns them key roles in significant organizational projects. Concurrently, participants work with their cohort on a cross-functional project for the duration of the program. Wiley's culture develops cross-functional leaders. Program participants gain exposure to a wide range of departments, teams and skills from branding to marketing, and budgeting to forecasting. This diverse experience at Wiley sets them up for success.

Executive Exposure. Whether it be through job shadowing a member of the management team or having breakfast with the CEO, the Future Leaders of Wiley interns are exposed to leaders throughout the program's duration.

Journey down the path that leads toward professional growth and make your commitment to learn alongside the leaders of tomorrow.
